

DAY - 4 SUMMARY

Team player:

A team player is the one who plays along with the team, knows how to manage a team, knows how to talk with others, and who plays in the collaborative manner.

THREE TYPES OF TEAMS PLAYER:

- Humble
- Hungry
- Smart

Humble players are the one who stays soft and try to speak softly with everyone, hungry player is the one who only aims to win and did not care about others feelings and smart players are the one who have a big circle and have a kind of talking tone that calms others. These are the three types of team player.

THE COMBO OF TWO:

- Humble + hungry: These kinds of people are the one who tries to be soft but accidentally hurts others feeling.
- Humble + smart: These types of people are the one who knows how to calmly talk to others but they lack their own growth.
- Hungry + smart: These kinds of people are the one who communicate with others so efficiently and have a proper goal and aims to wins and they are the one who knows how to manipulate others.

THE COMBO OF THREE:

The combination of these three is the best one, the one who have these three is the best among all the team players. The one who aims to win, tries to keep up with the calm attitude, and knows how to communicate with others.

What I have learned from this:

Today, I got to know about how to be a perfect team player. I am not a type of person who is strong in leadership, but I can keep up with the team and I can manage as a team player. And also, from today's session I understood that I need to develop my leadership skill and public speaking skill. I want to develop myself as a person who is perfect in all of the three types in team player, and want to become a perfect team player as well.

Intentionality:

Intentionality means someone who has the specific reason for their every moves. But it's not a bad thing. Everyone must have a specific reason for what they are doing, because that reason only gives them the satisfaction for what they have done.

What I have learned from this:

Today I came to know that, if you have the intention to win something, you have to work for that. If you have won what you aim for, it will give you the satisfaction. It is more like, if I am working on something or if I aim for something I want, I have to love that and do it in a proper way.

What I will do to cool down my mind?

- I will hear to music and go for a walk or
- I will talk to my parents or
- I will stay alone or
- I will go and watch some c- drama or k- drama.

What is GitHub and where it is used?

In the afternoon, the class began with the topic GitHub and where is GitHub used. GitHub is a version controller, that means it is like a cloud storage and it is used to store our codes and if 10 people working on a single app, and if one of them made some changes and saved in the GitHub, the changes will be stored and if i want to use the older version which has no changes, I can also change to the older version with the use of GitHub and the codes for older version will already be available in the GitHub and we can easily use it for changes we want.

GitHub commands:

Then the afternoon session continued with the commands that are commonly used in the GitHub and how the branches in the GitHub are connected together. The commands like git init, git add, git log, git checkout, rm, git commit etc.

What I have learned from this:

I have learned about how to use GitHub commands properly and learned about some websites like git timekeeper to learn more about git commands and practice with git commands and also another site like conventional commit to learn more about git commands. I have learned about how to create branches in the GitHub and how to use it.

Key takeaways:

- I learned about git commands.
- I learned about what are the key uses of GitHub and where it is used.
- Came to know about different sites to learn about git commands.
